LOST BOYS

STRATEGIES TO HELP EDUCATORS NAVIGATE THE WORLD OF BOYS FOR ACADEMIC SUCCESS!

Boys are held back in school twice as often as girls. Boys also get expelled from preschool nearly five times more often than girls, and they are diagnosed with learning disorders and attention problems at nearly four times the rate of girls. Boys are more likely to drop out of school, and make up only 43 percent of college students. Millions of boys are being lost along the path to academic success and career achievement in today's knowledge economy. Teacher bias regarding behavior, rather than academic performance, penalizes boys as early as kindergarten. On average, boys receive lower behavioral assessment scores, and those scores affect teachers' overall perceptions of boys' intelligence and achievement.

Rather than penalize boys' high energy – as traditional classroom methods often do – successful teachers are learning to take advantage of male liveliness, curiosity and thirst for competition. Unless educators stop to consider whether traditional methods are working for both genders, boys will continue to get the short end of the educational stick. This powerful one-day seminar helps educators understand the structural, chemical and processing differences between boys' and girls' brains. It helps educators support boys' developmental needs, while teaching them social/emotional competencies. Attendees will discover innovative strategies, as well as group and individual interventions, to help boys achieve their highest academic potential. Teachers, counselors, administrators and other educators will leave with practical tools to support boys' developmental needs and specific activities to get boys learning while reducing their risk for academic failure, dropping out and underachievement.

Learning Objectives

In this seminar you will learn to:

- Explain how boys' brains work including the chemistry and structure.
- Identify the differences in the ways girls and boys focus.
- Recognize the role of hormones, specifically testosterone and dopamine.
- Demonstrate classroom strategies to support boys' developmental needs.
- Contrast the difference between natural aggression and bullying.

Anxiety in the Classroom – How Educators Can Support Students with Anxiety Disorders

DVD Price $295 | Also available via AccuTrain On-Demand | Grades K-12

More than 13 percent of students – 1 in 8 – experience significant anxiety that limits their engagement in school and in relationships. Anxiety conditions – separation anxiety, social anxiety, phobias and generalized anxiety – are the most prevalent mental issues, and they often go unnoticed. But the impact on the students is significant.

During this webinar, Mike Paget, M.Ed. gives teachers, counselors and other professionals the tools to support and teach this high-potential portion of the student population while avoiding an unmanageable classroom environment. It uses a dramatized interaction to demonstrate how an educator might best handle the difficult, but critical, conversation with a troubled student.

Wired Differently: 5 Keys to Working with Students with Mental Wellness Challenges

DVD Price $250 | Also available via AccuTrain On-Demand | Grades K-12

Current studies show that approximately 20 percent of all students are diagnosable for a mental, emotional or behavioral health issue. This brand-new DVD/On-Demand program will help administrators, teachers, paraprofessionals and other staff understand how to support and teach this often high-potential portion of the student population – while avoiding an unmanageable classroom environment. This 20-minute video-based program employs real-life scenarios to introduce educators to 5 keys to working with students who are diagnosable for various disorders including anger disorders, ADHD, bipolar disorder, anxiety disorders, trauma (including PTSD), Asperger's and mild autism, and oppositional defiant disorder.
